Ohio Redistricting Measure Bound for Legislative Limbo

By WILLIAM S. VANCE
Salem News Staff Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio — Although it has received a belated breath of life, the move for congressional redistricting in Ohio appears to be headed back to the legislative graveyard for at least another two years.

All the signs pointed in that direction as the Ohio General Assembly wound up the 18th week of a session that isn't expected to go much beyond 24.

The problem of building a political home for the extra congressman Ohio gained after the 1960 census has been tackled again by Rep. Walter E. Powell, R-Butler. He was co-author in 1961 of a redistricting bill that passed the House only to be amended to death in the Senate.

Wants 24th District
His bill would put the new 24th district in Butler, Warren and Clermont counties and reshuffle

15 of the other 23 districts. One indication of the lack of momentum for redistricting this year is that Powell's bill gathered dust for nearly three months before being assigned for hearing.

Another is the attitude of House Speaker Roger Cloud, R-Logan, who is openly cool toward trying to push another redistricting bill to the Senate.

Recalling the events of two years ago, Cloud remarked: "I don't think the House will send a redistricting bill to the Senate until there is an indication that it feels strongly about accepting it."

There is no such indication.

Is There Ambition?
Speculation has been increasing that Cloud's coolness toward redistricting reflects political ambition for the congressman-at-large seat now held by Cincinnati Republican Robert Taft Jr.

Should Taft do the expected and run for U.S. Senator next year, Cloud is figured as a logical GOP choice to succeed him.

But Cloud disclaims any move in that direction.

"No, I wouldn't be interested in that at all," he said. "I had every opportunity to run two years ago. In fact Bob Taft encouraged me to run. I just don't have a statewide name."

Two Factors Delay
Cloud acknowledges that a congressman should have a district instead of the entire state to represent, but he points to two factors that take the zing out of the redistricting movement.

One is time; the other the Senate.

The time was right for redistricting two years ago, said Cloud, but "the further away you get from the census the less pressure there is to do it."

Briton Faces Eight-Year Prison Term

Pair Convicted By Soviet Court After 5-Day Trial

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet military tribunal today sentenced former Soviet official Oleg Penkovsky to death for espionage. His British codefendant, Greville Wynne, got an eight-year prison term.

The two were convicted by a military court after a five-day trial.

The verdict and sentence were read by the court president, Lt. Gen. Viktor Borisoglebsky.

Wynne's sentence was broken down to consist of three years in prison and the remainder in a corrective labor camp.

Stripped Of Rank
Penkovsky was stripped of all his medals, colonel's rank and World War II decorations.

The crowd broke into 30 seconds of applause as the sentences were read.

Wynne, a British businessman for whom the prosecution had asked a 10-year term, had asked the court for clemency, saying it was the 11th birthday of his son, Andrew.

"It will be such a shock for my little boy," Wynne told the three-judge military tribunal, "that I am not with him to wish him many happy returns."

"I ask you to remember my son, my wife and my aged father. I very much want my aged father to see me, but in England," Wynne added in concluding his 10-minute plea for mercy behind closed doors.

The prosecution Friday demanded 10 years in prison for Wynne and execution for Penkovsky, also charged with passing Soviet secrets to Washington and London. Both are 44.

The court agreed to hear 11th-hour appeals from the pair before handing down the verdicts.

The public was barred from the courtroom but Wynne's words were reported to Western newsmen later by the businessman's Soviet lawyer, Nikolai Borovik.

Wynne was arrested last November while on a trip through the Soviet bloc. He was accused of helping Penkovsky pass secrets to the West.

Borovik said Wynne repeated his allegations that British officials had threatened and blackmailed him when he tried to get out of the business of contacting Penkovsky.

"He said," Borovik reported, "that he was never a spy and had not intended to become one, and that he did not understand that it was spying at first."

Borovik told newsmen the prosecutor had not been able to prove Wynne was an active spy. If he had, the prosecutor would have demanded a 15-year sentence, instead of only 10, Borovik asserted.

Borovik said Wynne has decided to appeal any sentence, and Borovik added that this will be done to the President of the Supreme Soviet.

The lawyer said the pleas of Wynne and Penkovsky were made behind closed doors so as to give Penkovsky a chance to talk in detail about the secrets he allegedly passed on. Details about Penkovsky's plea could not be learned.

Legionnaires Elect Keck

Make Plans for District Meeting

Bert Keck of Glenmoor Post 736 was elected commander of the Columbiana County Council of the American Legion when 50 members met Friday night at East Liverpool Post 374. He succeeds Al Hayes of Columbiana Post 290.

Other officers elected are James Cregar, East Liverpool Post 374, first vice commander; Olan Sanor, North Georgetown Post 574, second vice commander; J. V. Hughes, Wellsville Post 70, finance officer; John Bartholow, Glenmoor Post 736, chaplain, and William Grate, Columbiana Post 290, sergeant-at-arms.

Cregar reminded legionnaires to their reservations for the past commanders banquet to be held in East Liverpool June 8. Stuart Luginbuhl, state department commander, will be the guest speaker. This will be a feature of the 10th District American Legion convention to be held in East Liverpool June 8-9.

Kenny Nichols Band will play for dancing following the banquet. The June 9 meeting will be held at East Junior High School, with a parade scheduled for 4:30 p.m. Cregar also reported that the Legion Bowling League at a recent banquet elected officers for the coming year as follows: Al Hayes, president; Olan Sanor, finance officer, and Ella Mae McCoy of Lisbon, secretary.

He said that at an organization meeting held at Lisbon April 28 on the Columbiana County Legion Junior Baseball League, five teams were represented: Salem, East Liverpool, Columbiana, Lisbon and Hanoverton.

There is also a possibility that Leetonia may enter a team. Another meeting will be held in Lisbon May 22 at 2:20 p.m. to complete the organization.

Harmon Zeppernick of Salem Post 56 suggested that legionnaires should offer their services in their communities to help promote the Civil Defense program. Bert Keck reported the county was just 20 members short of the

Mercury Drops To Below Freezing At Disposal Plant

Salem business places turned off their air conditioners and rebuilt their furnaces last night as temperatures tumbled from the 70's into the 30's in the span of a dozen hours.

The mercury plummeted to below freezing at the city disposal plant where attendants reported a temperature reading of 30 at 6 a.m. today. It was several degrees higher in the city at the time.

The abnormal weather here is part of a huge cold front which is clobbering the nation's Northeast. Snow was reported from New York eastward over the New England area.

The weather man reports the temperature in Salem will rise only into the 50s today, with a return to the 30s overnight. Scattered frost is predicted in regions away from the Great Lakes area.

The Sunday outlook is for fair and warmer.

Birmingham Officials Deny Pact

Vote Drive Planned By Negro Leaders

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Jubilant Negro integration leaders mapped plans today for a voter registration drive on the heels of what they considered an overwhelming victory in Birmingham's six-week-long integration effort.

City officials, however, scoffed at a biracial citizen's committee agreement on proposals to end the conflict, which has seen more than 2,000 Negroes arrested and fire hoses and police dogs brought into play to control seething throngs of Negro demonstrators.

Integration forces — led by the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. of Atlanta — had kept the city virtually under siege since April 3. As the Negroes began gathering volunteers for a door-to-door registration campaign, city leaders were adamant in their statements that the agreement was not binding on them.

Staunch segregationist Police Commissioner Eugene Connor, who directed the arrests and repulsed the crowds, said the agreement was "the lyingest face-saving statement that ever was issued."

"We've licked them and licked them good," he declared.

Connor, however, said he would not interfere if businessmen wished to integrate their lunch counters — one of the key points King said was agreed upon by the group.

King said the agreement provided:

1. Desegregation of lunch counters, rest rooms, fitting rooms and drinking fountains in downtown stores in planned stages within the next 90 days.
2. The upgrading and hiring of Negroes on a nondiscriminatory basis, including the hiring of Negroes.

Dr. Bishop said the operation was a success because of hypothermia (lowering body temperature), perfusion techniques (introducing a fluid into the body), the heart-lung machine, and modern anesthesia. The operating group was able to support life artificially while organs or systems were cut off in their functioning.

Purpose of the cooling was to put the patient's brain into a state where the metabolism was slowed down sufficiently that it did not need much oxygen. Thus, the brain could do without blood for a period, and the surgeon was given more safe time to repair the rupture. The vessel was clamped off with two silver clips.

Miracle Surgeons 'Kill' Woman To Effect Delicate Operation

CLEVELAND (AP)—At the climax of a rare and delicate brain operation lasting nine hours, doctors lowered the patient's body temperature to 54 degrees — and then suspended breathing, heart beat and blood circulation for 12 tense minutes.

The story of the pioneer operation at St. Vincent's Charity Hospital Wednesday on 63-year-old Mrs. Elma Adams of Cleveland was told Friday night by Dr. Edward J. Bishop. He was the chief neurosurgeon on the team of 15 specialists who performed the operation.

Ninety minutes after completing the operation to repair a ruptured aneurysm of the anterior communicating artery, Mrs. Adams was able to talk to relatives. She had no measurable ill effects, Dr. Bishop reported. She now is listed in good condition.

It is believed the technique used in the operation represents a significant breakthrough in brain surgery.

The blood vessel is so small — a drop of blood could hide it. This has made such a condition normally inoperable. It was considered dangerous because the vessel in addition to being tiny, is over the optic nerve and in front of the pituitary gland. It is close to blood vessels which, if damaged, could bring paralysis to the extremities.

Dr. Bishop said the operation was a success because of hypothermia (lowering body temperature), perfusion techniques (introducing a fluid into the body), the heart-lung machine, and modern anesthesia. The operating group was able to support life artificially while organs or systems were cut off in their functioning.

Purpose of the cooling was to put the patient's brain into a state where the metabolism was slowed down sufficiently that it did not need much oxygen. ## 'This Could Drive a Guy Nuts'

GI Left In Target Area Under Plane, Artillery Bombardment

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — "At first I thought about retribution to the guy who left me here, but mostly I was just scared to death."

With these words, Pvt. Daniel J. Arthur, 17, described Friday his feelings during ten hours in a target area where thousands of rounds of live ammunition were falling.

Guarding Mine Field
Arthur was left to guard a phony mine field as part of Exercise Coulee Crest, an Air Force-Army maneuver. The exercise began May 5 and ends May 20 on a million acres of central Washington.

The Los Angeles soldier, part of the "defending" Blue forces, was to be captured by elements of the "invading" Red forces. His captors failed to show up.

Gen. Paul D. Adams, commander in chief of the U.S. Strike Command and head of the exercise, said Arthur was erroneously accounted for as being out of the area.

At 6:09 a.m. Thursday, the Blue artillery opened fire. Arthur was asleep in his pup tent.

Not Worried At First
"When I first woke up I thought it was jets breaking the sound barrier," he said. "Then I looked out my tent. At first I just sat there and watched the show and wondered what was going to happen. I wasn't too worried."

"Then the firing got closer and the artillery opened up. I thought I might be sitting on one of their targets."

"I took all my white clothes — long underwear, shirts, shorts, a towel and things of this nature — and spread them out. I also made a small fire of sagebrush to try to attract the attention of the jets, but they couldn't see me at all."

"One artillery shell bounced off a hill and landed 100 yards from me. Their kill radius is 50 yards."

Arthur, who is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 125 pounds, curled up into a ball to make as small a target as he could. He wore his metal helmet.

Wrote Letter To Wife
During intervals of the bombardment, he worked on a letter to his wife, Wanda, in Tacoma, Wash.

"It ain't so peaceful here any more," the letter started. "There are a bunch of jets tearing holy hell out of my hill."

A little later, he wrote: "The bombs and cannon didn't get me but now they've got the artillery after me. Boy this could drive a guy nuts."

"Here it is about 3 o'clock. I'm shaking something fierce. I wish they'd stop."

At 3:30 p.m., the artillery fire was suspended and tanks began rolling into the area.

Hit By Rocks, Dirt
"I could see men coming over a hill," Arthur said in an interview. A tank fired a round which hit 75 or 100 yards up the hill from me. I was hit by rocks and dirt. The small arms fire was something else — I could hear bullets whizzing past me."

Arthur stood up and yelled. Someone called out, "Cease fire!" and a jeep rumbled up the hill. "What in the world are you doing here?" asked an officer.

"Sir," said Arthur, "I'm guarding a mine field."

Gen. Adams praised Arthur as "a brave man and faithful to his orders." He ordered an investigation and said new safety procedures would be instituted.

Group May Enlarge Budget

Tax Cut Unit Seeks Funds for Campaign

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—The Business Committee for Tax Reduction in 1963 meets here today to consider raising more money to beat the drums for a tax cut.

The committee, organized last month by a group including Henry Ford II, board chairman of Ford Motor Co., is inviting some 1,500 businessmen to enroll and contribute up to $1,000 each.

A spokesman said the group's 10-member executive committee would decide whether to enlarge its budget, set tentatively at $120,000, in order to mount a broader promotion effort built mainly around newspaper and magazine advertising.

The meeting was scheduled between sessions of the Business Council, the organization of 165 corporation heads and financial leaders which is winding up a closed two-day session here.

There is no official link between the Ford group and the Business Council, a continuing organization which offers advisory and research assistance to federal agencies without taking any formal position on public issues.

But it was clear that a great majority of council members support the goal of the Ford group — enactment this year of a $10-billion tax cut as a stimulus to economic growth.

Both Ford and his cochairman, Stuart T. Saunders, president of the Norfolk & Western Railroad, are members of the Business Council, and at least 20 prominent members of the latter group have joined the tax reduction committee.

These include Council Chairman Frederick R. Kappel, board chairman of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., and his predecessor as council chairman, Roger M. Blough, board chairman of United States Steel Corp.

At its closing dinner session tonight, the Business Council will get its first formal introduction to a dark horse possibility for the Republican presidential nomination.

"He said," Borovik reported, "that he was never a spy and had not intended to become one, and that he did not understand that it was spying at first."

Borovik told newsmen the prosecutor had not been able to prove Wynne was an active spy. If he had, the prosecutor would have demanded a 15-year sentence, instead of only 10, Borovik asserted.

Borovik said Wynne has decided to appeal any sentence, and Borovik added that this will be done to the President of the Supreme Soviet.

The lawyer said the pleas of Wynne and Penkovsky were made behind closed doors so as to give Penkovsky a chance to talk in detail about the secrets he allegedly passed on. Details about Penkovsky's plea could not be learned.

Calvary Baptist Church's Growth Cited In Reports

Annual reports were presented at the recent annual business meeting of the Calvary Baptist Church.

The church was organized three years ago with five adults and five children forming the congregation. They met in rented rooms on N. Lincoln Ave.

Since then there have been approximately 35 enrolled in church membership and the average church school attendance is 51.

Rev. C. Leslie Wells, pastor of the church, assumed his duties in April 1960 and in July 1960 the former Carr property on N. Ellsworth Ave. was purchased, remodeled and redecorated to be used as Sunday School and church.

Recently completed were five new classrooms in the basement. Other improvements include a large parking lot, softball field, and small gymnasium in the barn on the property. Mothers with small children use the nursery facilities adjoining the church auditorium.

The church has an active youth program with meetings Friday and Sunday evenings and had three teams entered in the city church basketball competition. The softball team will compete in the Bethany Baptist Softball League this summer.

Most of the remodeling and refinishing of the church building was done by members of the congregation of which Dale Tilton is chairman of the board. Other officers are Wayne King, clerk and deacon; Albert Gibbs, Bible School superintendent and deacon; Miss Elinor Henry and Mrs. Glen Metcalf, auditing committee, and Mrs. Mary Cleckner and Mrs. Robert McCormick, missionary committee.

Board Reports on Tax Review Progress

LISBON — The County Board of Review composed of Walter Huntson, commissioner; Vincent C. Judge, county treasurer, and Kenneth Bell, auditor, reported today on progress in reviewing the 700 complaints filed on the new re-evaluation of 1962 taxes.

Most of the complaints checked so far have no basis because the complainants paid more for their property than the tax duplicates list.

Several mistakes were found and corrected. The board has made a personal inspection of homes in the different areas they are working on.

Letters will be sent out later explaining the board's conclusions, and personal interviews will then be set up if the property owners still are not satisfied, the board said.

On the Eve of the Perspective

During the long countdown this month before Astronaut Leroy Gordon Cooper is launched on a 22-orbit flight around the earth, he will have time to muse on what his fellow astronauts have told him about space. He knows what to expect.

When he is up there on the fringe of terrestrial gravity, scudding through space at more than 15,000 m.p.h. Maj. Cooper will note the same things that impressed themselves on the awareness of his predecessors. The earth from which he came and to which he will return has been transformed from a level surface—the man's eye view—into a sphere. It is a ball that binds his Mercury capsule into an orbit.

Only the largest topographical characteristics are visible, if anything at all can be seen. From space, earth's visible features are the Asiatic land mass, the American continents, Africa, Australia and the polar ice caps.

A man in space can comprehend the meaningless of the human problems that preoccupy earthlings — their minuscule differences and petty distinctions.

In space, all earthlings become invisible, as do all the things they have accomplished with their hands, clawing and scratching and building. They are not even as visible as ants, as seen from 175 miles up—and the earth itself will be no more than an ant hill when space travel is projected millions of miles into infinity.

Astronauts have been picked from all parts of the United States and will continue to be chosen on a hit-and-miss basis. How could it be otherwise for men who learn firsthand that nothing about the earth is important, except its existence—a place where friendship and security exist — not where hatred and animosity imperil friendship and security.

Is Impatience Anti-American?

The earnest plea in Birmingham by all the city's most thoughtful citizens is for maintenance of law and order. Nothing is to be gained if the police lose control. That would be revolution. Birmingham wants no revolution; it wants just the opposite.

But for Negroes in Birmingham and other places where law and order must be maintained at the disadvantage of their race, law and order can become the essence of irony in the struggle for civil rights.

When Negroes ask for civil rights that have been denied them, they are evincing interest in law and order, too. When they are told to be patient and not cause trouble, they are given the impression that impatience has become a form of anti-Americanism. They are lost if they wait, condemned if they refuse to wait.

Throughout the South they have maintained patience until it has been worn thin. Elsewhere, they have been able to see token progress under a credo of "gradualism." But in some parts of the South, "gradualism" has been a way to substitute empty hope for something that might happen in the future for something that could happen next week, next month, or next year.

Yet, when their impatience was asserted, they were charged with disrupting law and order. It is as if impatience had become the offense, instead of the things that caused impatience.

This is one more of the confusing and irritating problems left unsolved by the Civil War. What is a reasonable limit for patience?

Not the Money, Just the Principle

Only two votes were cast against a resolution in the U.S. House of Representatives to curb junketing expenses.

With 384 affirmative votes, the resolution is expected to draw similarly strong support in the Senate. It's one of those propositions no one would want to oppose anyway. It will let everybody breathe easier.

Representatives and senators can't really be blamed for most of the junketing expenses that have been disclosed. They were spending "counterpart funds."

These funds are available to them under foreign aid agreements. They are the only way the United States can get any direct return on the huge sums it has spent on foreign aid in some instances.

A junketeering representative or senator always can reassure himself when spending this money that it behooves him to get all he can get because America has it coming. With a little persuasion he can persuade himself he is doing U.S. taxpayers a favor by getting them a nominal return on their investment. Yet when the junkets are held up to examination it never is the counterpart money that's called to attention—only the total sum involved.

Members of the House are tired of being pilloried for a practice that always is going to be misunderstood, misinterpreted and maligned.

Isn't there some other way to get some of the money back, though — like offering counterpart funds as rewards for the first 10,000 taxpayers to file income tax returns each year, the same to be used for trips abroad, fully transferable, no questions asked just go to the nearest U.S. embassy and say, "Sam sent me."

Memo

Dick Cobourn, a personable and intelligent young father who has displayed a more-than-normal interest in civic affairs of his community, has turned out to be the loser on several recent occasions when he ran for political office in city elections. Only last Tuesday he lost a Fourth Ward Council nomination by 13 votes.

We hope Dick won't get too discouraged because we believe he would make an outstanding city official. His is a name to keep in mind in the event a vacancy ever occurs.

Watch the Ashes

By Truman Twill

It has been noised around from time to time that the next big move by the tobacco people will be cigar smoking for women.

This might catch on, though a few years ago the tobacco people whooped up pipe smoking for women, or somebody did, and didn't seem to make headway.

When that campaign tailed off there may have been no more women smoking pipes than a century ago. Pipe smoking was very big among women during the frontier period of this country.

In backwoods sections there are still old crones puffing on pipes while rocking away on cabin porches. They also hit snuff and masticate the weed.

So even cigar smoking among women wouldn't be startling if it caught on. You might be surprised at the number of women who light up cigars now, not counting the ones who get away with it because they smoke miniature cigars the size of cigarettes.

Cigarette smoking by women in the United States began to gain converts when Alice Roosevelt, a dynamic figure in the reign of Roosevelt I, began to light 'em up in the White House. The era of socially sanctioned smoking for women is scarcely a half century old in its entirety — and there was still stiff resistance to stained fingers, pinpoint burns in clothing and smoker's breath among the soft sex until the Jazz Age broke down the last barriers in the Mad-cap Twenties.

Allofwhichisbackground for a tidbit of information about a handout from a Philadelphia advertising agency representing a client known as Anti-Tobacco Center of America, with headquarters in New York City. The theme is "Smoking Kills Femininity." That's putting it strongly, of course, but there's an element of doubt in some men's minds about one thing among women who hit the weed.

Either they smoke so little it's negligible or so much it's obsessive. There are no moderate smokers among women. They're either about to give up smoking or ring the bell with an all-out effort.

This appears to be caused by the fact women are still not out of the fad stage of doing something that represented emancipation when Alice Roosevelt began to puff cigarettes in the White House. They're still trying to prove they're ready for anything, yes siree!

Many men act as if they were trying to prove this too. But nothing carried to excess is good — salted peanuts, spirituous liquor, mashed potatoes, weight-lifting, soprano singing, hobbies, humility financial prudence — or smoking.

Anything that's overdone turns into a bad habit.

This might include anti-tobacco crusades, which are in as much danger of being overdone as the use of tobacco past the point of reasonableness by people who never know when to say, "That's enough for now, thanks."

If cigars for ladies catch on, so be it. But somehow the thought of a lady doing to a cigar what men who eat 'em alive and spit out the pieces do is, gulp, enough to make a man hope he'd never have to spend an evening with a lady cigar addict—and watch the ashes, sweetie.

Race Riots, Violence Only Aggravate Tensions

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Human nature hardly can be repealed by statute. Education and better communication between segments of the community can help to improve relations between groups. Violence and demonstrations that provoke riots can only produce tensions and make worse the relations between racial factions.

These observations, which take into account the gravity of the race problem in America, have been expressed again and again in the past. Unfortunately, the net result of most of the public demonstrations has been more and more bitterness and a retardation of real progress between peoples of different color.

The Birmingham demonstrations now have been given a certain kind of validity by President Kennedy as not involving violation of any federal statute and as not furnishing any basis for federal intervention.

This is somewhat different from the continued use of federal troops in Mississippi to quell threatened demonstrations long after a federal court order compelling the admission of a student to the University of Mississippi has been obeyed.

The President expresses instead the hope that the State of Alabama will maintain law and order and that the community of Birmingham will find some solution of its own to improve race relations.

This is a tolerant position for Mr. Kennedy to assume toward the people of Alabama. It's strikingly different from the attitude of the national administration toward the people of the State of Mississippi.

MR. KENNEDY, at his news conference on Wednesday, spoke of "federal statutes" not being involved in Birmingham but there was none violated in Mississippi either.

Congress has passed no law requiring integration in the public schools. Yet the 14th Amendment says Congress alone can pass the legislation to enforce the provisions of the amendment. It's questionable whether the Supreme Court was right in ignoring the absence of any federal legislation dealing with desegregation of public schools.

The Birmingham demonstrators were not willing to wait even for court orders to be issued and for a determination to be made in the customary way. Instead, demonstrations were organized in the last few days and thousands of participants paraded without local permits in order to provoke arrests and publicize the disorders.

It's reported that one object was to assist the money-raising campaigns of certain private organizations throughout the country which back integration.

Under the constitutional provisions sanctioning freedom of speech and freedom of assembly, the Supreme Court of the United States has again and again ruled that such privileges are not unlimited.

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, in a famous decision of the Supreme Court, said it is not freedom of speech to cry "fire!" in a crowded theater. This rule of law limits the right to incite people to violence. The demonstrations in Birmingham were undoubtedly planned with the idea that they would attract nationwide attention because the police would have to stop them. After Birmingham, the ritual will be repeated in other major cities.

It isn't the United States alone that is having race trouble. Human nature is the same in Britain, for instance, as it is in this country.

THE EXHORTATIONS and pious hopes expressed there are the same as in America.

On Tuesday of this week, the London Times published an editorial from which the following is an extract:

"The color problem in Britain is not becoming easier; it is becoming ever more serious. Every so often it bursts out or boils over. This is what is happening now over the Bristol bus boycott."

"Mr. I. R. Patey, general manager of the Bristol Omnibus Company, declares that it is unfair to accuse him of operating a color bar. His company employs West Indians in its garages and depots. But he refuses to change its policy of not employing colored people as bus crews. If he did, he thinks that fewer white people would want the job and it would become difficult to run the services. It is this situation which has led to the boycott by Bristol's colored population of the company's buses.

"Churches and trade unions have been drawn into the dispute, as have the Jamaican and Trinidadian high commissioners."

"This dispute is symptomatic of the ostrich-like bewilderment with which so many people in Britain contemplate the color problem in their midst. In general the West Indians and the rest have come to Britain because there were jobs to be done which would not have been done otherwise. . . .

"THE GOVERNMENT have — reluctantly, it is true — adopted the negative measure of controlling the future entry of these immigrants under the Commonwealth Immigrants Act. But positive measures are more necessary. This means that persistent efforts have to be made in the educational and social fields to fit the immigrants into their new surroundings. In this respect it is noteworthy how different has been the approach in different regions where colored communities exist: how successfully race relations are managed in one place and how they are botched or neglected in others. . . .

"Often the going is hard; but it will certainly be much rougher if prejudices, restrictions, and merely negative social attitudes are allowed to gather strength in this sensitive and all too menacing field."

Still a Few Chestnuts in the Fire

Supply System Probe Overdue

By VICTOR RIESEL

For more than six months this nation has ignored grim warnings of impending submarine disasters.

This alarm was voiced loudly and bluntly by a man with the guts to make a Billy Mitchell kind of fight — Vice Admiral H. G. Rickover.

As long ago as Oct. 29 in New York City, the admiral, who just a few days ago took a new submarine down for testing, revealed that he himself had been in undersea fighters which had barely survived. He put the blame or all this squarely on faulty welding, defective parts, untested materials, bad industrial management, poor workmanship, mislabeling of equipment ingredients and a virtual disintegration of some factory inspection systems.

The admiral still feels as strong today as he did then when he said: "On more than one occasion I have been in a deeply submerged submarine when a failure occurred in a sea-water system because a fitting was of the wrong material. "But for the prompt action of the crew, the consequences would have been disastrous. In fact I might not be here today."

EVER SINCE Rickover said that publicly, undramatically but with quiet anger and understatement, I have been dogging some Washington bureaus. I learned there have been investigations of damaged cables, fires, malfunctioning in the intricate innards of the atomic submarines.

It now can be positively reported that the security forces have not found a bit of evidence of sabotage.

Therefore the responsibility for poor equipment must rest on some of those who have been taking government orders for supplies and on those whom Rickover accuses of "poor workmanship" and faulty inspection.

Certainly a swift creation of a Congressional Select Committee to investigate the entire supply system should be the first order of business at the first possible sessions of both houses.

LITTLE LIZ

Some people not only expect opportunity to knock, but wait for it to unlock the door.

Rickover's almost wholly ignored speech of Oct. 29 is one of the most startling documents of recent years.

What almost sent Rickover and one of his crews to a crushing deep sea-bomb death was the use of incorrect materials welded into submarine equipment.

THE ADMIRAL said this was one of many such occurrences. During the last few years, he revealed, hundreds of major conventional components such as pressure vessels and steam generators have been bought by the Navy for nuclear propulsion plants. For the laymen, these are atomic engines.

"Less than 10 per cent," said Rickover, "have been delivered on time. Thirty per cent were delivered six months to a year or more later than promised."

"Even so, reinspection of these components after delivery showed that more than 50 per cent of them had to be further reworked in order to meet contract specification requirements."

Other parts, which are "welds," are examined by a system of radiography.

Rickover said that when parts were reinspected by a special task force and their industrial trainees, a "high percentage — up to 90 per cent — of the welds were found unacceptable."

He was bitter about "fatigue in materials." This "fatigue life" of materials has been an important to routine civilian production.

NOW IT EXISTS in the reactor field. Knowledge of this fatigue under thermal cycling stress is meager. So he Admiral and his staff have developed a special set of tests. But why has the story of fatigue of equipment not been brought up to date?

In another instance, Rickover and his team found that one manufacturer was still sending along material which was being subjected to test formulas 10 years old.

He said, too, that it has been difficult getting certain "large valve castings" for the subs. When the Navy finally does receive "acceptable castings, this is only after 200 to 300 weld repairs" on each casting.

He indicated there are scores of such cases of waste of huge sums, vital time and grim threat to life of young crews.

"In the case of submarines," Arm. Rickover said, "the crew lives and works between two dangerous environments — the intense sea pressure outside the hull . . . and the hot, high pres-ure primary and secondary systems of the propulsion plant. If the boundaries of either of these pressure containments should fail, serious consequences would result. . . .

Obviously there can be no margin for error. Every part, every tiny bolt and welding, all must work perfectly all the time. Obviously some parts are not.

Just as obviously a Congressional Select Committee probe is overdue.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Our big prom is coming up soon. Everything was all set. I have already bought my gown and shoes. The trouble is my boy friend found out just yesterday that he has to bowl that night.

He said he would be glad to let a substitute take his place on the team but on that night they bowl for the trophy. He must be there because he's the best bowler on the team and they are depending on him.

He offered to take me to the prom after bowling but it would be 10:30 at the earliest. My parents say this is too late to go any place.

My boy friend said we could meet at the prom if it was okay with me, but I think I'd feel out of place until he arrived since the prom is for couples only.

Please help me solve this one. It's bigger than bgh of us. — ALL DRESSED UP WITH NO PLACE TO GO.

Dear Dressed: It would be a shame to miss the prom. Why not ask your closest girl friend if she and her date will pick you up. You could then wait for your boy friend there. Since almost everyone would know the circumstances, you need not feel uncomfortable.

It's not an ideal solution but it beats staying home.

Extravagant Ma'e

Dear Ann: You hear a lot about extravagant wives and stingy husbands. In our marriage the situation is reversed. I am a firm believer in budgeting, living within one's means and saving for the future.

Since we married six years ago it's been a constant battle. My husband spends money freely, buys whatever he takes a fancy to, with no thought of price, need or anything else. He says he's going to enjoy life and he urges me to do the same. If I had as little respect for money as he does we'd be broke in no time.

Am I a fool for living this lopsided existence? Should I spend, spend, spend as he does? Perhaps if I did he'd wake up. I'll take your advice.—PINCH PENNY.

Dear Pinch: I can't be of much help because I don't know how much your husband makes, how much it costs you to live or how much he spends.

If he is totally irresponsible it would be disastrous for you to "spend, spend, spend as he does." In most marriages one partner is usually more practical about money than the other. It looks to me as if you're it. Tools.

Verbal Thanks Will Do

Dear Ann: Is it necessary to send a written thank-you note for gifts received at a bridal shower?

My daughter says yes, I don't agree. Belle is a business girl. By the time she gets home from work and has dinner it's 7:30 p.m. She is so busy addressing invitations, making the church arrangements and having clothes fitted that the girl is exhausted trying to keep up.

I say it is not essential to write a note for every shower gift. Belle said your word will be final. I hope it is "no." Thank you. — EXHAUSTED, TOO.

Dear Too: Relax, because the word is "no." An oral "thank you" when the gift is unwrapped is sufficient.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR HELOISE: Here's a seal dilly for mothers who have boys who wear blue jeans. I finally figured out that it was much easier to patch those knees before they wore out!

I buy blue jean patches at my dime store and instead of placing them on the outside of the knee ... I turn the legs inside out and press the patches on the inside.

You will be surprised how much longer blue jeans last when the knees are patched first on the inside.

And, ladies, I should know after 20 years of marriage and 13 children who are all boys!

PHYLLIS OHERRA.

Ohhh! Thirteen? Bless you, mommy.

DEAR HELOISE: For those women who run out of scouring cleanser in the bathroom, just try using toothpaste or powder (powder works best).

This not only takes my stains away and leaves the basin gleaming but smells nice too. Only a very small amount is necessary.

MILDRED WAINMAN.

DEAR HELOISE: Recently a woman wanted to know how to remove spots from a marble topped coffee table — and keep them off.

We are a marble company. As a preventive, all marble should be thoroughly rubbed with a sealer ... at least twice a year. This will prevent spots and rings from penetrating into the marble itself.

Once such a spot has occurred, first wash it thoroughly; second, rub with putty powder; third, seal it to prevent accidents from occurring again.

If it is a bad stain, or a mild one which has become bad from being neglected over a period of time, it should be taken to a firm such as ours and have the complete surface repolished (which can be done for a nominal charge).

JAMES G. WALKER.

DEAR HELOISE: When I make an angel food cake from a boxed mix, I pour it into the pan and put a few drops of food coloring a knife and "cut" the coloring into the batter. It makes a beautiful marble cake.

JULIE SUARSTAD.

This is real cute. I tried it on a plain white cake and it is lovely. I also use two colors in one layer and it's real "perk."

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: When it comes time to clean and store our storm windows we always pull out our chalk-type window glass cleaner and apply it to the windows before storing them away for the summer. Leave the window cleaner on the glass panes during summer. Acts as a shield for dust!

Now ... granted, it is a little harder to rub off, but we always have a "wiping bee" in the fall. I save all the old socks, terry cloth and so forth. (Put your hands into the socks and pull the cuff part of the sock back down over the hand again ... thus making it double and you're all set to wipe the windows.)

While one person cleans the outside of the house windows the family can be cleaning the storms.

Instead of wearing out your finger and trying to get into the hard to reach corners, we use an old ball point pen also wrapped in a sock!

BETTY SHAWCROSS.

FROM HELOISE'S KITCHEN

Did you know that when you make barbecue sauce which usually calls for chopped lemons, onions etc. that you could put them in your blender, let it run for a few minutes and that it would actually be a puree? Then cook. Instead of making one recipe at a time, double it, pour it in a jar and freeze it.

HELOISE.

Dear Folks: I may be called maharani of the floor mop but there can be pleasure in mopping floors! I love it myself. Mops never should be dirty. "Cleanliness is next to Godliness." Keep your mops clean. Not only will they not smell, but it will be a pleasure to pick up that beautiful white thing with a handle and mop your floors ... if it is clean.

I have learned that there are many ways to bleach a mop. The best is to put a little suds and bleach in a bucket — better yet, use that plastic waste basket, gal, and bleach it at the same

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Memories in the Making

A picture ... a frame ... to treasure always. So she believes!

The fleeting baby smile, the outgrown pair of baby shoes—these she'll always treasure.

But in later years not every mother can point with pride to her son's baby picture. Memories sometimes become tarnished with remorse.

So much depends on us.

If we hope always to treasure our glimpse of yesterday ... we must carve with spiritual tools our vision of tomorrow.

Columbiana Nips Salem 58.7 to 56 For Track Title

Clippers' Ward Is Outstanding

Salem's Beery Sets 440-Yard Dash Mark

By MARK W. MILLER
News Sports Editor

A sensational performance by junior Jim Ward led Columbiana to its first undisputed county title in the history of the school in the 60th annual track and field classic at Reilly Stadium Friday.

The Clippers edged Salem for the top honors with 58 7-10 points to 56. Columbiana tied Salem and East Palestine for top honors in 1922 with 31 points.

Ward chalked up 19 points to win the high point trophy, and he was also voted the outstanding athlete of the meet.

SALEM'S BILL Beery put on quite a show himself. He set a record in the 440-yard dash, placed first in the high jump, was a member of the winning 880-yard relay team and finished fifth in the broad jump.

Another double winner in the classic was Columbiana's Dale Murphy, who set a new mark in the 180-yard low hurdles and coped the shot put.

With its fine showing, Columbiana rates as a strong contender for laurels in the Class AA district event scheduled here next Friday.

In the afternoon field events, Coach Waldo Ward's Clippers scored points in all four categories to pull out in front, and the new champs never trailed.

Salem figured to pick up enough points in the distance races to bring them victory, but in the 880-yard run, United runners ran one-two and the Quakers managed to get only a fifth.

WARD, IN the preliminaries, tied the 100-yard dash record of 10 seconds flat set by George Gaines of Columbiana back in 1919. He was timed in 10.1 in the semi-finals, then took the finals in 10.1. Ward broke Gaines' 220-yard dash mark of 22 seconds set in 1919 when he pranced to a 21.8 last night.

John Zilske and Tom Bauman were second and third, respectively, for Salem in both the sprints.

Ward also won the broad jump with a leap of 21 feet, 8 inches. He was a member of the 880-yard relay team that finished second.

United took Class A honors with 17 3-5 points to nip Wellsville, 17, and Leetonia, 14.

Beery turned in the fastest quarter-mile run of his career as he beat the number two man to the tape by four seconds in 51.4. The old standard of 51.8 was set by Earl Herrington of East Palestine in 1951. Beery was first in the high jump with a leap of 5 feet, 9 inches.

THE MOST thrilling race of the evening was the final event on the card, the mile relay. Beautiful exchanges by Salem made it possible to nip a determined United squad.

Coach Ray Russell's four-man unit pushed Salem to a 3:40.7 timing. The Golden Eagles held about a three-yard lead going into the final lap.

Senior Tad Bonsall, who returned to the lineup following a three-week lay off because of a pulled muscle in his leg, displayed great endurance as he caught his man in the final 40 yards and passed him five yards from the tape to win by about a step.

Other members of the squad were Dave Taus, Reed Wilson and Art Spack.

Columbiana ran its heat of the 880-yard relay ahead of the Red and Black and was timed in 1:34 flat. Two poor exchanges probably cost the Clippers a first place.

Salem's Coach Karl Zellers, who has taught his relay teams the exchange system almost to perfection, watched as the Quakers' half-mile crew passed the baton without flaw to capture the relay from the Clippers in 1:33.5. Members of the team were Mark Snyder, Beery, Bauman and Zilske.

MURPHY OF THE Clippers set a new mark in the 180-yard low hurdles as he won easily in 20.9 seconds. Tony Conkle, of East Palestine set the old record of 21.3 in 1952. Murphy also took first place in the shot put with a heave of 52 feet, 3 1/2 inches.

John Tarleton of Salem, a junior, provided the fans with some thrills in the mile run. He trailed in third place for the first three laps. With about 350 yards remaining in the race, he moved out in front and won going away by 20 yards in 4:37.8.

Columbiana took six first places during the carnival, Salem picked up five, East Palestine had two and United got the other.

Gene Metzgar and Ziegler ran one-two right from the start to cop the 880-yard run. Richard Wetzel and William Fullerton of Waterford Park is, through its membership in Thoroughbred Racing Associations, sponsoring the TRA - Grantland Rice Memorial Scholarship.

This four-year, all-expense scholarship, worth approximately $10,000, goes annually to a deserving high school senior. It provides a Bachelor of Arts education at Vanderbilt University, which was Grantland Rice's alma mater.

This scholarship is Thoroughbred Racing's tribute to one of the best loved sportswriters of our time, according to James F. PITCHING—Dick Farrell, Colts, pitched perfect ball for six innings, wound up with two-hitter, striking out 13 en route to a 4-1 victory that ended the Chicago Cubs winning streak at five games.

BATTING—Dick McAuliffe, Tigers, hit a grand slam homer and drove in six runs in 14-0 walloping of Cleveland.

Orioles Rip Yankees 6-3; Red Sox Dump Senators

Pizarro Hurls, Bats Chisox To 2-0 Win Over Angels; Twins Blank A's

By JIM BECKER

Associate Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox took only 112 minutes Friday night to polish off the Los Angeles Angels 2-0, with Juan Pizarro pitching a three-hitter and driving in both runs, one with a homer.

That was one minute longer than the Sox took the night before to trim the New York Yankees by the same score. They have now won five straight games during which they have allowed the opposition five runs, and are a full game in front in the American League.

The Baltimore Orioles kept pace in second place by whipping the Yankees 6-3. It was the fourth straight loss for the world champions.

Phil Regan threw a three-hitter for the Detroit Tigers who bombed the Cleveland Indians 14-0, and Camilo Pascual did the same job for the Minnesota Twins over the Kansas City Athletics, 2-0. The Boston Red Sox dropped the Washington Senators 6-3.

Pizarro, the 26-year-old south paw, struck out six Angels and walked only one as he gained his second victory. He homered in the third inning and batted home the insurance run in the fifth with a single, after catcher J. C. Martin had tripled.

McBride Suffers Loss

Ken McBride, who brought a string of 29 scoreless innings against Chicago into the game and had never lost to his old Sox mates, was the loser.

Luis Aparicio and Al Smith slugged solo homers off Yankee starter Whitey Ford, and Baltimore starter Mike McCormick was nursing a two-run lead when his arm stiffened in the eighth inning. Relief pitcher Dick Hall came just before rain had held up play for 35 minutes, and eventually gave up a two-run single to Clete Boyer that tied the score.

The Orioles came right back with three runs off Yankee reliever Hal Reniff in the eighth, on two walks, Jackie Brandt's run-producing double and John Orsino's two-run single.

Dick McAuliffe drove in six runs for the Tigers, four on a grand slam homer, and Rocky Colavito and Regan also homered. It was Regan's first in the majors. The Tiger righthander, working in 36-degree weather, struck out eight.

Pascual Clicks Again

Pascual, who is the only thing keeping the cellar Twins from dropping completely out of sight, pitched his fourth straight complete game. It was the A's fifth straight defeat, and only the third triumph for the Twins in their last 10—all of them by Pascual.

Rookie Jay Ward doubled home both runs for the Twins in the second inning, after Jimmie Hall doubled and Berne Allen walked. Orlando Pena, who also allowed only three hits in the seven innings he worked, was the loser.

Frank Malzone, shifted to the cleanup spot in the Red Sox batting order, responded with three hits, including a two-run double that broke a 3-3 tie against the Senators in the eighth. Washington's Tom Cheney suffered his second loss against four victories although he pitched a three-hitter and struck out 11 in the 7 1-3 innings he worked.

Braves Down Phillies 4-1; Colts Belt Cubs

Dodgers Nip Giants 2-1; Cards Blank Bucs 1-0; New York Edges Cincy 3-2

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

The National League champion San Francisco Giants and the runner-up Dodgers met Friday night for the first time since last year's playoff and Los Angeles came away with a 2-1 victory.

Don Drysdale, who had been unable to post a victory in almost a month, checked the Giants on six hits and retired 13 batters in order a one stretch.

The victory pulled the Dodgers to within four games of the pace, setting Giants and cut the Giant's edge to one game over the second-place St. Louis Cardinals, who edged Pittsburgh 1-0 on Curt Simmons' pitching and George Altman's ninth inning homer.

Farrell Hurls 2-Hitter

Dick Farrell allowed only two hits as Houston ended the Chicago Cubs' winning streak at six, 4-1; the New York Mets won their fifth in a row by defeating Cincinnati 3-2 on Jim Hickman's homer, and Milwaukee downed Philadelphia 4-1 in a game called in the seventh inning due to rain.

A crowd of 50,407 turned out at Los Angeles for the first meeting between the Dodgers and Giants since last Oct. 3, when San Francisco defeated Los Angeles 6-4 in the third and deciding game of the NL playoffs.

Altman Homers In 9th

Altman's homer with two out in the ninth ended a pitcher's duel between Card southpaw Simmons and Pittsburgh's Bob Friend. Simmons scattered nine hits for his fifth victory without a loss while Friend absorbed his second defeat in five decisions despite allowing only five hits. It was the first time the Pirates had been shut out this season.

Farrell pitched perfect ball for six innings, but the Cubs put both their hits together for a run in the seventh inning on Lou Brock's single and a triple by Billy Williams. Rusty Staub, 19-year-old Colts rookie, collected three singles in four at-bats and drove in two runs in support of Farrell, who struck out 13 and squared his record at 3-3. Glen Hobbie lost it.

Mets Win 5th In Row

Hickman's eighth inning homer snapped a 2-2 tie and provided the Mets with the longest winning streak in their two-year history. It also ended Jim O'Toole's five-game winning streak and handed the Reds' southpaw his second defeat against six victories. Carl Willey, touched for Johnny Edwards' two-run homer, was the winner with a five-hitter that brought his record to 3-1.

The Braves beat a left-hander for the first time in nine tries by shelling Phil's starter Chris Short and cut off their losing streak at six. Dennis Menke and Roy McMillan homered in support of Dennis Lemaster, the winner with a three-hitter.

A word from THERON at the Country Store

We are always looking for ways to eliminate any reasons why people would not want to shop at the Country Store and some people still do have reasons.

One complaint I have had from some people was the cooking and frying at our lunch counter caused a grease smell which they would get on them and people would know where they had been.

We now have our kitchen in the back, no more grease smell in the store. Now if you come in our place smelling like a rose you will go out the same way.

Man Faces Grand Jury In Burglary

1, Lisbon, charged with breaking and entering, was bound to Columbiana grand jury Friday under $500 bond at a hearing before Judge Luther Donbar in Northwest County Court.

He pleaded innocent to the charge of breaking into Stewart's Recreation in Homeworth this spring and stealing cigars, candy, money, cigarettes and razor blades.

McVay was committed to the Columbiana County jail in lieu of payment of bond.

His alleged accomplice, Mary Lanam of 687 Harrison St., Alliance, was bound earlier to the grand jury also under $500 bond. Failing to post bail, she has been held in Lisbon jail.

The young woman, who earlier pleaded not guilty, testified Friday that she and McVay pried open a window of the recreation hall with a crowbar, then stole the goods. She said McVay broke open the pinball machine and gave the money to her, maintaining she was not paid or coerced into giving this information.

None Hurt In Two Minor Accidents

One driver was charged with reckless operation and another with failure to stop within assured clear distance as the result of investigation of two traffic accidents on Salem streets Friday.

An accident at 4:40 p. on Benton Road near W. State involved cars driven by Roger Rowles, 17, of 928 E. Fourth St. and Emory Wilkinson, 55, of Cuyahoga Falls. The youth was cited for reckless operation.

Three southbound cars collided on N. Ellsworth Road at the intersection of Eighth St. at 6:50 p.m. The automobiles were operated by Albert Smyth, 34, of Warren, Fred E. Weingar, 20, of Western Reserve Road, and Mildred Heston of Westville Lake.

Following the mishap Smyth was charged with failure to stop within assured clear distance.

Alliance Boy, Mother Hurt In Accident

Five-year-old Marvin Richards of 20 E. Prospect St., Alliance, was admitted for observation at the Central Clinic at 9:10 a. m. today following a one-car accident on Route 45, three miles south of Route 224 at Ellsworth. Marvin's mother, Mrs. Ruth Richards, 26, was released after treatment for contusions. Her husband, Marvin Sr., and daughter Barbara, also passengers in the car which wrecked, apparently were not injured.

The state highway patrol in Canfield is investigating the mishap.

Lisbon Man's Driver's License Suspended

LISBON — Robert E. Cusick Jr., 26, RD 2, Lisbon Friday received a six-month suspension of his driver's license under the state's 12-point demerit system. Common Pleas Court Judge Raymond S. Buzzard suspended his license after a report from the Ohio Department of Motor Vehicles showed he accumulated 13-points within a two-year period. He will be allowed to drive to and from work, however, Judge Buzzard said.

He was cited for driving while intoxicated, reckless operation, speeding and driving left of center.

Franks was arrested by Howard Lisk of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles after Franks, who was operating a truck with a Pennsylvania license, delivered scrap iron from Lisbon to the Eljer Co. in Salem. After Franks paid his fine, his Sharon, Pa., employer was required to buy an Ohio license plate before the truck could be moved.

Leslie Bowser, 28, a Kittanning, Pa., truck driver, was fined $48 and costs Friday for overloading, in Mayor Dean B. Cranmer's office.

sure here is for it." And in the Senate, what may be agreeable to one member is unacceptable to another because of the overlapping of congressional and senatorial districts, Cloud said.

For example, parts of four state senatorial districts would be involved in Powell's proposed 6th Congressional District covering Scioto, Adams, Brown, Pike, Highland, Ross, Hocking, Fairfield and Pickaway counties.

Parts of three senatorial districts would be included in each of seven other districts.

But if the purpose of equalizing district population is to be fulfilled—and Powell says that's his purpose—there will be overlapping any way the congressional map is drawn.

Powell believes the prime consideration should be in carving a niche for the 24th congressman. He says the idea of a congressman-at-large contradicts the intent of the U.S. Constitution, which provides for representation in the U.S. House on the basis of population.

Represents 10 Million

"If we have a congressman representing 10 million people," he said, "he actually isn't representing anybody."

In drawing new congressional boundaries, Powell is aiming at an average district population of 404,433. He comes within 15 per cent of that in 18 of the 24.

District populations now range from a low of 236,288 in the 15th, which is wiped out in this bill, to a high of 726,156 in the 3rd. Under Powell's bill, the smallest districts would be the 12th and 13th in Franklin County with populations of 341,481, and the largest still would be the 3rd in Montgomery County with 527,080.

Powell Surprised

Powell doesn't think he can sell his bill this year and registered some surprise when Rep. Charles F. Kurfess, R-Wood, chairman of the House Elections-Federal Relations Committee, finally scheduled it for hearing.

The bill comes up for a second hearing Wednesday night. Kurfess plans to send it to a subcommittee along with one that would affect only the boundaries of the 11th and 19th districts.

Most observers, Powell included, believe that will amount to a funeral ceremony for the bill.

Death Toll Rises To 39 In Wood Alcohol Poisoning

NEW YORK (AP)—In the wake of Bowery derelicts going on a cheap binge—drinking wood alcohol at 45 cents a pint—the death toll from the resulting poisonings has reached 39 since May 2.

Some 35 others are hospitalized, with 30 in critical condition.

There were indications today the scourge was abating, with one source shut off. A Bowery hardware store which police believe was a primary source of the lethal concoction was raided Wednesday night and two clerks were arrested.

Friday Bellevue Hospital admitted four new wood alcohol poison cases, the fewest since the epidemic began.

However, three new deaths were attributed to the liquid, pushing the death toll past the three-dozen mark.

The two hardware store clerks were accused of selling 45-cent-a-pint paint thinner, which has a wood alcohol base, to at least four of the homeless persons who inhabit the lower Manhattan section known as the Bowery.

CD Meeting Set For Wednesday

Mayor Dean B. Cranmer has called a meeting of Salem Civil Defense workers at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Council Chambers at City Hall.

At that time the group of about 30 local C.D. workers will discuss revitalization of the local civil defense effort.

Harmon E. Zepernick of 658 E. Seventh St., who last week was appointed by Mayor Cranmer to head Salem C.D., will be in Columbus Monday for a meeting with state officials and will report to the Salem organization Wednesday.

With The Patients

Reported in "fairly good" condition at Alliance City Hospital is Robert Mumpire, 18, of Georgetown Road who was struck by a large tree limb Thursday afternoon.

Mumpire, grandson of Mrs. Nettie Iler, was driving near Alliance Thursday when he observed that a man working high in a tree appeared to be in trouble. Mumpire stopped, climbed the tree to where the worker had become accidentally caught in twisted ropes, and assisted the man to the ground. As Mumpire was enroute to the ground, the limb upon which the man had been working whipped back striking Mumpire, who suffered a broken index finger and a fracture above the elbow of his right arm, and body contusions, it was reported.

Atlas booster rocket the "Faith 7" spacecraft, the worldwide tracking network, weather and other flight phases.

Doctors were to make several medical checks in the final three days to obtain baseline data for comparison with information to be radioed during the flight.

Man's ability to perform during prolonged exposure to space weightlessness is a main objective of the flight and medical information therefore will be of primary concern.

Sunday the tracking network will be given a thorough communications checkout, with the possibility that Cooper's backup pilot, Alan Shepard, will sit in the spacecraft to test the control system.

The capsule was given a thorough wringing out Friday during a simulated countdown and launching exercise. Cooper was at the controls during the mock mission when hydrogen peroxide fuel was pumped into the fuel tanks and lines. He practiced with the manual steering system and reported everything worked fine.

critical economic troubles at home as well as various difficulties abroad.

But he expects that a searching appraisal of policy now under way will result in Russia's concentrating on its revolutionary goals among the "have-not" nations, rather than concentrating on furthering the revolution at home.

That has been one of the sore points between Moscow and Peking. Red China, denouncing Moscow as cowardly, has demanded that Russia press communism more aggressively in the developing nations.

And this hard line has been attracting supporters in the Communist camp. The State Department official said the Indonesia Communist party, for instance, appears to be swinging toward Red China.

Also, he said, Soviet officials have been disappointed with the results of Russian aid in such countries as Mali, Guinea, Iraq and the Congo.

In patching up its troubles with Red China, Russia may also revise its tactics in Southeast Asia, the official suggested. This could mean more Soviet support for Communists in Laos and South Viet Nam.
